It is one of the defining marks of our time that God is now weightless. I do not mean by this that He is ethereal but rather that he has become unimportant. He rests upon the world so inconsequentially as not to be noticeable . . . Those who assure the pollsters of their belief in God's existence may nonetheless consider Him less interesting than television, His commands less authoritative than their appetites for affluence and influence, His judgment no more awe-inspiring than the evening news, and his truth less compelling than the advertiser's sweet fog of flattery and lies. That is weightlessness.
