About Coach Adam Taylor:

Adam believes that to have skilled players you must have a great player development system in place. Following his own high school and college basketball career, he went on to coach middle school, high school, college, and semi pro basketball over the last 26 years, Adam has built a skill development program after years of research and study of the many great coaches and skill trainers.

As a coach, Adam focused his energy on learning new offenses and defenses, but then came to the realization that he had all this knowledge about the game, but how did teams win games? Great player development. The players needed the fundamental skill sets to effectively run those offenses and defenses. Adam's mission with Adam Taylor Basketball® became to create an environment that is focused on skill development.

As the founder of Adam Taylor Basketball®, Coach Taylor has organized and produced camps, clinics, and classes all over the country and has built and modeled his curriculum from what gets the best results. The Adam Taylor Basketball® Skill Development System is built on strong fundamentals. Coach Taylor also focuses on character traits needed to be a great player.

"Every athlete exercises self-control in all things ... I do not run aimlessly ... I discipline my body, and keep it under control, lest I myself should be disqualified."

About Coach Ellie (Hodak) Conover:

Ellie has always enjoyed athletics and played volleyball from sixth grade through her senior year of college. She is originally from Minnesota and participated in the MACS league in high school. During her time under Coaches David and Barbara Herron at Northland International University, she was a team captain and received All-American honors.

Coach Ellie observed and assisted Coach Herron in several summer camps, and has been involved in coaching at the middle school level. Because of her love for the sport, she wants to teach girls strong fundamentals and help develop positive mental attitudes.

For the younger players who attend camp, she hopes they will enjoy learning the sport while having fun. For the older students, she desires to see them work hard and hone in on skills allowing them to be ready to compete in their fall season.
